3 Nights in Leh – Explore Culture, Views & Monasteries

Your backpacking adventure starts in Leh, the heart of Ladakh. With three nights here, you get enough time to acclimatise properly and explore the best of Leh and its surroundings.

Top Places to Visit in Leh

- Shanti Stupa – Best sunset view in town
- Leh Palace – 17th-century royal architecture
- Sangam (Indus–Zaskar River Confluence)
- Magnetic Hill
- Pathar Sahib Gurudwara
- Hall of Fame
- Leh Market for souvenirs, cafés & local food

Things to Do in Leh

- Café hopping
- Shopping for Tibetan jewellery & handicrafts
- Sunset photography

- Monastery visits
- Try local dishes like thukpa, momos & butter tea

Three nights in Leh ensure you are well-rested before you travel deeper into Ladakh's high-altitude regions.

1 Night in Nubra Valley – Desert in the Himalayas

After Leh, travel through the iconic Khardung La Pass, one of the highest motorable passes in the world, to reach the beautiful Nubra Valley.

Highlights of Nubra Valley

- Diskit Monastery & Maitreya Buddha Statue
- Hunder Sand Dunes
- Bactrian Camel Ride
- Shyok River Valley Views

The stay in Nubra Valley is peaceful, scenic, and full of adventure. It gives backpackers the perfect mix of nature and fun activities.

Back to Leh – Final Day for Chill Time

Return to Leh for your final night (if included in the itinerary), and spend time shopping, café hopping, or visiting viewpoints. Many backpackers enjoy exploring:

- Changspa Road cafés
- Local rooftop restaurants

- Tibetan markets

Best Time for Leh Ladakh Backpacking

May to September is the ideal season for backpackers, due to open roads, stable weather, and accessible high-altitude locations.
